There is one aspect of the Covid psyop that I never seem to hear anybody talking about and that is the idea of Agency.

Western medicine is at its roots propaganda and for a hundred years now it, by its very nature and design, has been eroding the idea of people having agency. Someone else knows best. Trust them because they are degreed and know what you can't know.

Western medicine has gone so far as to codify the idea of people not having agency; the Law says an adult may not give advise to another adult regarding their health - at least not professionally.

This Covid madness is the extreme (and I suppose inevitable) extension of that.

A dear friend of mine, who I have always been close to, but now who has drunk the kool-aid, once in a phone call jumped on me when I mentioned some internet source, saying, "you can find anything on the internet!!", disparaging it.

I didn't say it at the time but my answer should have been, "yes, that's the beauty of the internet. You can find all kinds of stuff and then use your own wisdom, your developed ability to discern, and your ability to take information and to hold it with nuance; trusting it in varying degrees depending on many factors, and using it accordingly."

This is agency, which my friend and so many have seemingly relinquished, in favor of putting their trust in millionaire talking heads working for billionaire media moguls, big Pharma, the government, and Western medicine.

And, of course, ultimately, the justification for censorship of information is that people have no agency; they are mindless sponges who might soak up the wrong information and make a bad choice.

It behooves us to be aware of the depth of the psyop tactic to erode and disempower our agency amidst the drip, drip, dripping diminishing of our liberties and control of our lives. After all, the ultimate goal of the current coup is to disenfranchise us completely as the emerging global corporate state, in the new normal's new version of communism, will make all important choices about our lives for us.

Peace out.
